Business Address: 200 Krall Rd, Myerstown, PA 17067

Age: 33

Brief Description of Agricultural Operation:

Our family operates Diamond Valley Dairy, an 80-cow dairy farm. We are DFA cooperative members that focus on both milk production and the genetic advancement of type traits in purebred Holstein and Jersey cattle. We consistently exhibit at both state and national cattle shows. We also crop farm 80 acres, raising forages for the dairy.

In 2024, we started a new venture, Grumbine Acres, where we operate a U-Pick cut flower garden, market stand, and host community events.

Family:

My wife, Kaitlin, and I have been married for 12 years and have four children — Olivia, 10; Harvey, 8; Carson, 5; and Felicity, 2.

I was raised on a dairy farm in Myerstown, Pennsylvania. Through some transitions that operation was split into three complementary operations — Our 80-head dairy run by myself, John and Sharon Kline (parents), Jesse Kline (brother), Jacob and Grace Kline (brother/sister-in-law); a 200-cow dairy run by Jason and Megan Kline (brother/sister-in-law); and a cropping operation run by Jared and Mandy Kline (brother/sister-in-law).

Employment and business experience for past five years:

I started working at Wengers of Myerstown as an Equipment Salesman selling farm equipment in 2013. In 2019, I was promoted to Sales Manager of Ag Equipment Sales, and in 2023 I was promoted to Sales Manager over both ag equipment and construction equipment. As a salesman, I was able to build relationships with ag related operations of all kinds from all over the country. As a manager, I have been able to set goals and business plans, establish long-term relationships with vendors and develop a thriving team. During my time as manager, our equipment sales volume has grown by 150%.

Other boards or committees served in the past five years (and principal business):

DFA Resolutions Committee member 2024-2025, Myerstown Lions Club Secretary 2021-2025, Horizon Farm Credit Nominating Committee member 2023, and ELCO FFA Ag Advisory Board 2019.

Community Involvement/Government Service:

Myerstown Lions Club member since 2019, Secretary since 2021; Ephrata Community Church member and youth ministry volunteer since 2015.

What is your vision for the future of agriculture?

Technology will continue to transform agriculture in powerful ways. Precision agriculture using GPS, drones, and sensors will boost yields and reduce waste. Al and data analytics will enhance farm decision-making, while automation and robotics will cut labor needs and improve efficiency. Vertical and indoor farming will enable year-round production with less land and water. Integrated systems will monitor crops and livestock in real time, supporting timely and informed actions. Conservation practices like no-till planting, cover cropping, and improved soil management will be adopted more widely to protect resources and build long-term farm resilience. Farmers will also benefit from new direct-to-consumer opportunities, using online platforms, Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) programs, and community food hubs to meet growing demand for local, sustainable food.

What do you believe are the primary issues facing agriculture and Horizon Farm Credit?

Rising input costs continue to strain farm profitability. Land, equipment, seed, fuel, and fertilizer have all increased in cost significantly, forcing many farmers to seek larger loans and increasing the financial risk for Horizon Farm Credit. At the same time, these high costs create barriers for new and beginning farmers, limiting Horizon Farm Credit's ability to grow its customer base.

Market volatility further complicates lending. Unpredictable commodity prices — driven by global trade disruptions and shifting demand — make cash flow projections more uncertain and increase the risk of loan defaults.

Higher interest rates and inflation have also raised the cost of borrowing, further tightening margins. Additionally, Horizon Farm Credit must meet rising expectations for digital tools and faster service. To stay ahead, Horizon Farm Credit must continue adapting its products, technologies, and risk strategies to support both long-standing customers and the next generation of producers.

Why do you want to serve on the Board of Directors for Horizon Farm Credit?

I want to serve on the Board of Directors for Horizon Farm Credit because I've experienced, firsthand, the exceptional level of care and support the organization provides. As a young farmer starting out, Horizon Farm Credit played a key role in helping me get established. Now, as a dealer participating in the Farm Credit EXPRESS program, I've continued to witness that same commitment extended to a diverse range of agriculturalists.

My work in the farm equipment industry has given me a unique opportunity to engage with farmers and producers from all over the country. I've learned a great deal from their challenges and successes, and I believe this perspective can bring value to the Board as Horizon Farm Credit continues to evolve and serve the agricultural community.

Brief Description of Agricultural Operation:

1,500 acres of crop including corn, soybeans, wheat, barley, oats, and hay. Also, a 1,200-head farrow-to-finish hog operation, 70-head of beef cattle, and two broiler barns.

Family:

I am the fifth generation on my family's farm. I am excited to see the growing interest and drive of the next generation following in the footsteps of their parents and grandparents to continue growing the operation and maintaining a very productive, diversified, and self-sufficient farm.

Employment and business experience for past five years:

Partner of Rhoads Brothers Farm. Management of livestock, cropland, and financial responsibilities of the business.

Other boards or committees served in the past five years (and principal business):

Chairman of Main Township Board of Supervisors, Police Director of Main TWP police department, previously served on Columbia County FSA Board of Directors.

Community Involvement/Government Service:

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Member, Member of Mainville Sportsman Club, Life Member of Mainville Fire Company.

What is your vision for the future of agriculture?

I see the future of agriculture being very dependent on technology to minimize waste of time and input expenses, and to utilize data collected from the applications and harvest to streamline operations.

What do you believe are the primary issues facing agriculture and Horizon Farm Credit?

The primary issues I see facing agriculture and Horizon Farm Credit are lack of laborers and the ability to pay a fair rate to keep the workforce when the margins are so close. It's hard to be competitive financially with the high-paying jobs which are needed with the cost of living.

Why do you want to serve on the Board of Directors for Horizon Farm Credit? I've been a member since 1998 and now I have the opportunity to step away from some of my duties at the farm with the next generation being able to accept some of the responsibilities.

Going forward, I want to know more about our lender and what I can do to ensure that our family stays here as a member.

Bloomsburg, PA 17815

570.389.8388 | rdshuman@verizon.net

Farm Credit Member Since: 1994

Age: 53

Brief Description of Agricultural Operation:

I own and operate R D Shuman Farms, consisting of 1,250 acres; 150 acres owned and 1,100 acres rented from 27 different landlords. I have a diverse operation of 650 acres of corn, 350 acres of soybeans, 150 acres of small grains, 50 acres of vegetables, and the balance in hay and pasture. I raise 100 head of cattle annually, divided between dairy replacements and freezer beef. The operation is spread over 24 miles in three different counties.

Family:

My wife, Deb, and I met at 4-H Camp Brule as camp counselors in 1988. We married after we graduated college in 1994. I graduated from Penn State University with a degree in agriculture business and Deb graduated from East Stroudsburg University with a degree in secondary education of mathematics. Deb teaches mathematics at Bloomsburg Area High School. She also loves to work with the dairy cattle, as well as help with the farm records. We have two adult children. Steven, 25, graduated from Thaddeus Stevens in machine technology. He worked two years off of the farm before returning to the operation as the 10th generation, where he is currently an employee while also operating his own 150-acre enterprise. Our daughter Courtney, 21, is currently a senior attending Penn State University. She is studying animal science and loves her animals. She is also a member of the Penn State Western Equestrian Team.

Employment and business experience for past five years:

I have been a lifelong farmer, and as the owner operator of R D Shuman Farms for 30 years, keeping current with new regulations, required reporting, recordkeeping, and trends with the markets, I have learned to be very flexible in the day-to-day operations and have a long-term plan implemented. I also have been humbly blessed to represent the customer owners of Horizon Farm Credit, serving as Pennsylvania State Seat Director.

Other boards or committees served in the past five years (and principal business):

STATE: Horizon Farm Credit Director, Former AgChoice Farm Credit Director, Former Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Board member, served on Executive committee and served as Chairman of Wildlife Committee, Former Pennsylvania Friends of Ag Foundation Board member.

NATIONAL: American Farm Bureau Young Farmer and Rancher Committee member.

What is your vision for the future of agriculture?

Agriculture is on the verge of new technology advancement for production and conservation at implementation speeds that we have never seen before. There will be space for all different kinds of agriculture, from niche markets to large scale operations. From organic and conventional to indoor and traditional farms, they all will need to be adaptive to new technologies. Artificial Intelligence gleaning through all of your soil samples to make recommendations and concepts we haven't even thought of yet. Twenty-five years ago, did you think you would be carrying a phone around in your pocket so that you could send pictures of corn fields to your agronomist or order parts online in the field?

What do you believe are the primary issues facing agriculture and Horizon Farm Credit?

Regulations and capital requirements for agriculture are what I see as obstacles for entry into this profession. The amount of pressure on land prices for commercial, residential, and ag production keeps increasing. Meanwhile, commodity prices continue to stay flat. All of agriculture needs to be working together and support one another during regulatory issues. Furthermore, the Farm Credit System and Horizon Farm Credit need to be creative, innovative, and efficient to supply the members of this cooperative with valued products of quality and reliability during good times and, more importantly, during stressful times.

Why do you want to serve on the Board of Directors for Horizon Farm Credit? I believe my experiences from all the different committees and community involvement I've had over the years show my ability to work for common goals, and promoting and advancing agriculture. I have always been willing to listen and have tough conversations to develop reasonable solutions to issues. My vision of a Director is to be well informed at the local, state, and national levels. I have committed myself to being the best director I can, by attending all Board meetings, many additional trainings, customer events, and learning sessions. I want to serve on the board to help guide and improve reliable credit for my generation of farmers, as well as the needs of your children.

Farm Credit Member Since: 1995

Age: 44

Brief Description of Agricultural Operation:

I am a full-time farmer and owner at Appalachian Orchard Company (AOC) as well as owner/operator of Fruit Meadow Farms. AOC is a grower, packer, and shipper of fresh fruit located in the Shenandoah Valley. The company is a third-generation, family-owned business operating 500 acres of orchard ground producing an average of 325,000 bushels of apples annually, along with various other tree fruits. We have been scaling up our apple production ground for the last four years and are expecting an increase to 400,000 bushels annually in the next five years.

Fruit Meadow Farms began as a farm diversification five years ago. We operate 350 acres of hay and pastureland, where we are raising beef cattle, meat goats, and lambs for local meat sales. We presently have a herd of 60 registered Red Angus, Black Angus, and Angus crossbred cows; a herd of 35 Boer breeding goats; and 30 crossbred sheep. We raise all animals from birth through feed out and sell the meat locally, offering online sales and contactless local delivery to allow for flexibility during our busiest seasons.

Family:

I am the granddaughter and daughter of lifelong farmers who have led the way for me. I was blessed to be able to work alongside my grandmother for 10 years prior to her passing. I work daily with my husband (Philip) and father (Michael) to operate Appalachian Orchard Company. Work and family are inseparable for me. My husband and I married in 2005 and are the third generation to operate the orchard business that my grandparents started. In 2024, we completed our fourth farm ownership transition in 20 years. Each transition has presented different challenges, but I am happy that we have successfully completed this phase of our transition, and I am excited to welcome the fifth generation into our operation if they choose. Philip and I have three children ages 18, 16, and 14 who are actively involved at the farm in some way and have heavily influenced the direction of Fruit Meadow Farms.

Employment and business experience for past five years:

CFO & Food Safety Plan Administrator since January 2018, and Owner, VP, Secretary and Treasurer since 2024 for Appalachian Orchard Company in Martinsburg, West Virginia. Owner/Operator of Fruit Meadow Farms since 2019.

Other boards or committees served in the past five years (and principal business):

I currently serve on the Horizon Farm Credit Board of Directors and chair the Risk Committee. I also serve on the Foundation for Agricultural Advancement Board, serving as Chair for 2024-2025.

Community Involvement/Government Service:

I spend a couple of days each year traveling to Washington, D.C. visiting with my representatives and senators advocating for apple growers and farmers across the Mountain State. Having three children who are involved in a variety of activities, I spend time volunteering where needed. Growing up in both the 4-H and FFA programs, I am glad to give my time being of service to both organizations when asked.

What is your vision for the future of agriculture?

The future of American agriculture is heavily dependent on the advancement and adoption of new technologies. We, as farmers, need to produce more using less input than ever. Globalization and world trade are ever present in our minds as the global population continues to rise, and we are witnessing more need than ever before for the food and fibers that are produced here in the U.S. I believe we will see the continuation of consolidation across all sectors of agriculture due to the economies of size. Farmers will need to seek niche markets, direct market opportunities, or form co-ops in order to compete and keep their businesses profitable. The next generation of farmers and farm business owners will embrace technology out of necessity, and I think you see ever-increasing tech trends to bolster food production. Gen Xers and subsequent generations have been raised in a world of increasing environmental awareness. I believe we will continue to see our next generation of farmers step up their stewardship. They will use new technologies to increase agricultural production while dealing with environmental issues like water availability and soil health.

What do you believe are the primary issues facing agriculture and Horizon Farm Credit?

Horizon Farm Credit has a unique footprint that forces farmers and farm businesses to deal with increasing pressure of "urban sprawl." Starting with the beach towns on the eastern shore, then crossing the bridge into the Washington, D.C. metro area, and next following the Pennsylvania Turnpike farther west through cities that are developing and growing. We continue to lose farmland to houses, urbanization, and industry due to our location. Farmland is being swallowed up, making it hard for small farms or start-up farmers to access farmland. Farm families will continue to struggle with farm transition planning as more and more "farm kids" choose careers off the farm for a variety of reasons. Technologies introduced to make farms more productive will be very expensive and you will see many farms struggle to incorporate tech advancements due to the capital expense involved in setting up. Recent changes in governmental policies will affect markets and pricing in the coming years. American farmers certainly have their fair share of troubles on the horizon, but we are resilient and I believe that as an industry and as farmers, we will continue to embrace changes where needed and we will emerge stronger than ever.

Why do you want to serve on the Board of Directors for Horizon Farm Credit? During my experience as a Director, I have learned a great deal and took advantage of every training opportunity presented to me to better serve our members.

I believe that my time, energy, and voice — as well as those of my colleagues — have helped to make Horizon Farm Credit better for each and every member. I know intimately the struggles that farmers and farming operators face daily, and I come to this role with purpose and humility. The cooperative structure of the Farm Credit System is second to none; every director that serves Horizon Farm Credit brings knowledge and insight that benefits our member borrowers. I hope to continue to serve Horizon Farm Credit for another term where I promise to always keep you as a member and your needs at the forefront of every conversation and decision.
